You came to me with open mind and soul
You came with friendly smile
My stonecold heart survived the first wave though
But at the second it was torn apart

I never had a will to live
I only wished to die
You whispered tender words to me
My fragile world was broken down

I saw the sky, I saw the sun
They weren't painted red
I saw you right in front of me
My angel and my ...
